III. 1 What did you like about the class?

the way the pro. teach
The Professor is open to any questions and explains well.
lots of hands on

LOTS OF VALUABLE INFORMATION. INSTRUCTOR WAS VERY KNOWLEDGEABLE

The instructor was very knowledgeable and helpful. Lectures were not boring and the subject matter of the course was interesting.

This class was very well structured. The content was prepared in detail, and made available on the instructor's own website. The instructor was very polished, and very knowledgeable. This was a very productive and helpful class

I felt that I mastered the skills needed to publish web site

III. 2 What didn't you like about the class?

short time

Nothing.

nOT ENOUGH HANDS ON IN CLASS DESIGN. nOT ENOUGH EXAMPLES

I think a little too much emphasis was placed on the "importance of social media" and "networking" and not enough time was spent discussing the nuts and bolts of website design.

III. 3 What improvements would you suggest?

more time

Perhaps try to focus more on the coding aspect of website design (like CSS, Javascript, HTML5) or forgo the coding aspect and focus on website creation engines like wix or godaddy. I think trying to do a little bit of both in a 5 day class might be a bit much.

EACH CLASS SHOULD BE 1 AND 1/2 HOURS OF LECTURE AND 1 AND 1/2 HOURS OF ACTUAL IN CLASS WEB DESIGN

Just trimming down the emphasis on social media and advertising. Otherwise, everything was great. Carl M. Burnett is a great instructor and I would take another class of his in an instant.

III. 4 What other classes would you like to see offered?

the next website development classes
A class that teaches how to make websites from scratch using Dreamweaver (or some cloud based equivalent)
Further development in HTML5; I believe this class did an OK job of introducing the subject, but I'd like to delve a little deeper in the future.
part II
